The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claims are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. They appear to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors.

As examples of the above noted language, in claim 1, line 5 and line 15 both recite "a shutter" which makes it seem that there are two shutters in the device whereas only one is disclosed. Also in lines 17-18, the recitation "lower portion" should read -- lower area -- to provide proper antecedent basis for the recitation "second area" of claim 8 or change "area" to -- portion -- in claim 8, line 3. (Note also line 34, "second portion"). In line 37, "first portion" should read -- first area --.

In claim 2, lines 6-7 again note the recitation of "second area".

In claim 3, lines 1-2, the recitation "wherein the closed position of the valve, the cover encloses..." appears awkward and should be refined.

In claim 6, lines 3 and 4, the narrative recitation "the latter" should be changes to positively recite the structure being referred to .

In claim 7, line 1, the recitation "intake duct" lacks proper antecedent basis.

The above appear to be the most prevalent of the narrative and indefinite language of the claims. Additional changes may be warranted by applicant.

Art Unit: 3753

Claims 1-9 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

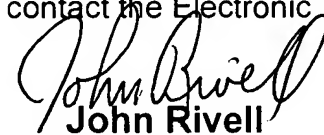

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The prior art fails to anticipate or properly render obvious a regulator valve and flow indicator combination including a flow indicator rod slidable within a threaded transparent body and having a portion serving as the control valve head which is retained against or released from the seat by the threaded transparent body which in turn permits observation of the position of the flow indicator rod and thus indicates flow through the valve.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
